Men Are Ready

High Officers Declare Draft Only Solution

VANCOUVER, Nov. 20.—(CP)—The commanding officer of the Canadian Army's Sixth Division at a press conference here today said they do not believe overseas troops can be adequately reinforced through any means other than the drafting of home defence troops entered to volunteer for overseas service.

The press conference was held just prior to a private meeting of the officers who were sent to Vancouver by Maj.-Gen. G. R. Beckett, general officer commanding in chief, Pacific command, to plan a campaign outlined last week to district officers commanding by Defence Minister Macdonald called to reinforce overseas troops by having home defence troops volunteer for service overseas.

Given Free Voice

Gen. Peckers told the officers: "This conference will be conducted privately, but I want you a few moments before the meeting gets under way for you to talk to the press and express your own views on the home defence question."

The whole of the Sixth division is stationed in British Columbia, and is composed of home defence troops. The officers told reporters that virtually all of the home defence troops in the division have received full combat training.

Brig. R. H. Beattie, brigade commander at Nanaimo, B.C. said his troops are in splendid shape and ready to go overseas.

"I have in that brigade some of the finest soldiers in Canada and I will back that statement up against my own opinion," Brig. Beattie said. "The men are ready and most anxious to go."

Awaiting Call

"We are just waiting the call from the government that they must go, for they feel that it is the responsibility of parliament to implement its own legislation."

Just let the government assume the onus and we will be boys back for overseas duty."

Brig. A. R. Royer, former brigade commander, said home defence troops are the "goose" of "going overseas" volunteers in previous recruiting drives. "The men who are determined to wait for conscription."

Canadian Legion Urges All MP's Support Draft

OTTAWA, Nov. 20.—(CP)—The Canadian Legion, in a letter sent to every member of the House of Commons over the signature of Alex Walker, Dominion president, today urged parliamentary support for conscription for overseas service.

"We know," the letter said, "that the Canadian Legion is a body of men of parliament to take a stand which may affect their political standing. It is the duty of every member to recognize the peculiar responsibility that is yours and come out publicly for conscription for overseas service as the only way in which we can adequately fulfill our obligation as a nation to our fighting men and to our allies."

Brings Criticism

Position of Air Reserves Enters Draft Controversy

OTTAWA, Nov. 20.—One interesting phase of the coming struggle at the house session opening Wednesday over whether immediate reinforcement of the Canadian army is necessary by conscription service is sure to be discussion over disbandment of the Commonwealth Air Training Forces.

Several infantry, armor and artillery officers have been actively criticizing the government action in putting thousands of the air trainees whose services are required in the future overseas branch of service on the reserve.

A certain amount of professional jealousy of course, has to be discussed, but the bulk of the criticism is said to be the Bulletin this morning: "The government has created in the air force a special privilege class of men who will rebuild the whole army in the future overseas branch of service on the reserve."

French Army Units Advance To Rhine River

millions of German soldiers, but a front ditched said the enemy was beaten back.

A first Army spearhead crashed into the Vennus forest, four miles west of Duren and in the more than 20 miles west of Cologne, while further north the allied forces reached the outskirts of Gerensweiler, less than two miles from the big transport center of Lönich.

The Paris radio reported without comment that the French First Army mobile units racing down the Rhine valley after a 25-mile advance, approaching Belfort, had reached Mulhouse, fortress city 15 miles north of Basel.

Gen. Jean de Lattre de Tassigny's sweep to the Rhine, outflanking the German line, was the first step toward driving into its outskirts, was the first step toward driving into its outskirts, was the first step toward driving into its outskirts.

CAPTURE TOWNS

The French First Motorized Division and mobile units of a motorized division appeared to the Rhine late yesterday, and late reports said they captured a number of towns along a three-mile stretch of the river near opposite the Swiss end of the Basel fortress of Mulhouse.

The extent of the German retreat to the southern bank of the western front was demonstrated by the fact that the troops of the North Zouave regiment were storming into Belfort, with little trouble, after overrunning its outskirts of Esst and Fort Du Mont du Salabert.

Because of being driven into allied troops to reach the Rhine left in units of the motorized division and armored cars of a motorized French division, the troops of the North Zouave regiment were storming into Belfort, with little trouble, after overrunning its outskirts of Esst and Fort Du Mont du Salabert.

Only a five-locked door then stood between them and freedom. They left behind a trail of plaster dust and confusion.

While police continued an all-night search for the youths, reports of breakings and enterings from various parts of the city trickled into police headquarters. Officials believed that the escapees were responsible.

About four hours after the escape, the general store of J. O'Hara, 49 St. James, was broken into and robbed of goods, stamps and money worth more than $100.

The building had been gained through a small window, while the garage door provided a handy exit for the escapees after they had filled a couple of sacks with clothing, food and cigarettes.

Of the stolen goods, cigarette were valued at $100, while the value of the stolen goods, cigarette were valued at $100, while the value of the stolen goods, cigarette were valued at $100.

Only on the Cologne plain were the Germans putting up stiff resistance, but there the British 2nd and American 9th and 11th armies were pushing them forward in the most powerful attack ever mounted on the western front, an attack which broke through to the Rhine and the great Ruhr valley.

STIFFER RESISTANCE

British 2nd Army forces fighting in Germany reported stiff resistance by the Germans in the eastern garrisons northeast of newly-captured Suggart, two miles north of Geleischheim. More than 1,000 prisoners were taken.

12-Gens. Miles Dempsey's forces and troops of the American 9th Army in Geleischheim.

In southeast Holland, other United Kingdom troops cleared the Meuse river from the canal to the Meuse-Kaiser road west of Venlo, 30 miles north of the Duerne canal at an undisciplined point and rapidly were expanding their front.

Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Ragsdale, American 1st Army major general, was approaching the city of Cologne itself with an advance of 20 miles in the last 24 hours and four miles southeast of embattled Breda.

STAR ARMY GAINS

Farther north, the American 9th Army drove into the outskirts of Froelshoven, 27 miles west of Cologne and seven miles southeast of Geleischheim, after a general advance of 2000 yards all along the 11-mile offensive sector.

The town advanced to the two armies within five to six miles of both Jülich and Duren, two enemy bastions on the western front guarding the western approaches to Cologne. Both towns were in ruins from concentrated air and artillery bombardment.

A spokesman for the 9th Army said American troops were fighting east and around Neurath, Scherren, Künzelsdorf, St. Joris and Völschen, all along a front extending six miles north of Eschweiler.

BATTLE IN OUTSKIRTS

In Eschweiler, seven miles north-east of Aachen, American 9th Army troops battled through the outskirts in an attempt to reach the largest German-held city west of Duren.

Other 1st Army units outflanked Eschweiler with the capture of March, three miles to the southeast, and an advance to Wenus, four miles southeast of Eschweiler and 20 miles west of the outskirts of Cologne.

Mines, booby traps and barbed wire, however, allowed the American troops fighting in the Hurtgen forest farther south almost to a standstill.

Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's American 3rd Army, which had taken successive gains at least five new crossings of the German border into the Saar basin since the past 24 hours. Units of the 2nd Cavalry Division reached the German border yesterday, nearly four miles inside Germany.

Farther south, 2nd Army forces captured one-third of entrenched

May Prolong European Conflict War on Western Front Strictly Stand and Die Affair for Nazis

FUNNY BUSINESS

WITH THE ALLIES' 9TH ARMY IN GERMANY, Nov. 20.—(AP)—The war on the western front has become strictly a stand and die matter for the Germans and Hitler has the answer to them in this great conflict will end.

In simplest terms, the war apparently is not over until the German nation has been so badly beaten that it will be physically impossible to put enough men, boys or old men into the field to carry on an effective fight.

As long as they have the manpower to plug gaging sectors of the 100-mile line. Allied pressure is going to be small and costly.

Gen. Eisenhower's answer to these tactics has been to put on the pressure along the whole front from Switzerland to Holland, meeting the German force with more and more Allied force.

ALLIED ADVANTAGES

Advantages of the Allies:

1. Almost unlimited man and material power.
2. Air power.
3. Ability to plug and shift their heaviest points of attack.
4. Ability to shift the whole front to take space for time—if they give up ground now it is in Germany and it hurts.

On the German side are these factors:

1. They are working from internal lines of communication.
2. They are winter weather, and they are able to bring up supplies to the front.
3. They are working from internal lines of communication.

Gen. McNaughton Asks His Plan Get 'Fair Trial'

OTTAWA, Nov. 20.—(CP)—Defense Minister McNaughton asked the House of Commons today for a method of voluntary enlistment to provide reinforcements for Canadian forces overseas. He gave a "fair trial," and expressed belief that the problem "will be solved."

Text of Gen. McNaughton's statement follows:

"I refer to the statement to the press which I issued on Nov. 16 reporting the results of the conference on reinforcements held on Nov. 14, with the general officer commanding the Canadian Army in Europe, commanding all military districts."

Minister said then that the principal matter dealt with at the conference was the provision of reinforcements and particularly the question of trained reinforcements for the Canadian Army in Europe.

He said that the measures to be taken to meet the situation were being considered, and that the government was determined to see that the Canadian Army in Europe was properly reinforced.

LaFleche Says Quebec Units Will Get Men

MONTREAL, Nov. 20.—(CP)—Maj. Gen. L. R. LaFleche, minister of national defence, said in a statement here last night that with the organization he helped set up in Quebec, he is confident that it is possible to send overseas a good number of French-Canadian volunteers to maintain the (French-Canadian) units now in action when they will require reinforcements.

"More than ever, I am confident that French-Canadian units will make it a point of honor to back up our brothers and sons who are on the firing line," he added.

The statement: "With reference to the problem of finding reinforcements for French-Canadian regiments overseas, I have passed three days at Montreal with the object of perfecting the organization needed to attain our objective. The first step will be made to men already in camps and training. They shall find it necessary to create a reserve of volunteers so that, at no time, will the French-Canadian regiments be threatened with a shortage of reinforcements."

CONSULTS WALFORD
While here, I have had the privilege of conferring with Major Gen. A. K. Walford, chief of staff of the Canadian Army, with Maj. Gen. E. J. Renaud, officer commanding the 2nd Battalion, and with Brig. Edmond Blais, officer commanding the 1st Battalion, as well as with their staff officers.

"I have also met the commanding officers of the French-Canadian battalions and training camps in the Province of Quebec, and the Maritime Provinces. It is a pleasure for me to emphasize the spirit of collaboration they have demonstrated in our interviews."

"From all these conversations, it is evident that it is possible to organize a good number of trained volunteers to maintain the units now in action when they will require reinforcements. More than ever, I am confident that French-Canadian units will make it a point of honor to back up our brothers and sons who are on the firing line."

PROMPT ACTION
"It is necessary to act promptly. Nobody among us ignores the fact that our enemies must defeat our traditions and insure our survival. Within a few days, the entire question of reinforcements for overseas will be reopened. All with whom I have discussed the matter are convinced that when reinforcements are needed, they will be available."

"As proof of the co-operation which is being extended to the Association of Veterans of the 22nd Battalion, Montreal branch, has offered immediately to open a recruiting office. Needless to say, that offer was accepted at once and with my heartfelt thanks."

"Other units, whose prestige is no less since Dupre, Steily and Holland, are proposing to assist in the same way. In short order, recruiting efforts will be opened in Quebec province, and the benefit of volunteers willing to reinforce French-Canadian regiments overseas."

"Everyone will understand the gravity of the situation. The war now goes out to those who want to be soldiers and who are proud of their race."

Reinforcements On Italo Front Declared "Kids"

Kinnon, minister of trade and industry and member for West Edmonton, and Mrs. Cora T. Cassin, MP for Edmonton East, had been read and approved.

TEXT OF RESOLUTION

This resolution is as follows: "Whereas the federal parliament has been convened to arrive at a decision regarding use of the home defence army to reinforce the Canadian Army overseas and whereas the people of this country have expressed as being in favor of the use of the conscripts in any theatre of war. Therefore, it is resolved that Edmonton Branch No. 24 of the Canadian Legion, BESL, strongly urge upon Hon. James A. Macdonald and Mrs. Cora T. Cassin that they implement the will of the people."

In addition to the remarks of Mr. Macdonald letters from army personnel overseas were read to the meeting by Secretary-Manager W. J. Williams.

One young Edmontonian had been there: "The infantry is doing a lot of the engineers' work these days. The zombies were left are gloating over the beautiful corpses they are getting and one slipped and called us suckers. He won't do that again."

"All the active boys are being put in the PHL (poor bloody infantry) and being rushed overseas and not having the chance to get any technical training. The more they stay here and get the training, you can see they're getting well prepared for after the war. The active boys do the fighting and the zombies benefit by it."

ADDITIONAL EXCERPTS

From another letter, written by a lieutenant going through "the hell" of Holland: "Mr. Williams read additional excerpts. The writer said he had read where anyone in Canada taking action against a zombie would be heavily fined."

"I'm sure it would be a real plea for men of the type over here to pay for that privilege."

"The zombies should be sent over here and made change places."

LIFE'S LIKE THAT

"I like that army rule about not being able to tell your folks where you are."

with the people of these countries. (Holland and Belgium) who have been under Nazi rule, and then they should be sent to the Pacific to fight the Japs."

"We know that the zombies will be discharged and men fighting here will have to go to the Pacific."

"As long as there is a single zombie in Canada I will never volunteer for service in any other theatre of war," the writer stated, adding that he could not help being bitter as the feeling against the zombies is quite high among the troops in the firing line.

RESOLUTIONS READ
Resolutions approving the stand of the Canadian Legion from the Alberta Farmers' Union and from the Edmonton Armed Services Federation, were read to the meeting. One from the AFU has a membership of 20,000.

President Carl Heckbert, Vermilion, chairman of the Legion, and Ralph Henderson, vice-president, here on provincial command council business, each spoke briefly.

President Heckbert said he had been recently in Ottawa where the Legion's position on the conscription issue had been placed again before the federal government.

"We of the Dominion command of the Legion have addressed a sincere plea to the Prime Minister that the $2,000 to $3,000 men of the home defence army be made immediately available to reinforce Canadian army overseas."

The prime minister has called parliament and every soldier and every citizen in the west is looking to Mr. King to carry out the mandate of the people, Mr. Heckbert said.

MEN ARE NEEDED

"To say that these reinforcements are not necessary is a mistake. Our comrades coming back from the battle front say they are needed. We read in the papers of young boys with only a few weeks of training, making the supreme sacrifice. Some of them enlisted only a few weeks before. We are all agreed that these were not adequately trained," Mr. Heckbert said.

Vice-President Henderson said that considerable still remains to be changed in the government attitude toward veterans. One thing that must be changed is the action of the Veterans Act regarding disabilities suffered while serving with the forces in Canada.

"At present a man who suffers a disability while serving in Canada is thrown out on his ear and his money can only obtain help after undergoing a means test," said Mr. Henderson.

ON CREST OF WAVE

We of the Legion are now riding the crest of a wave and if we don't get these things straightened out now they never will be straightened out."

Turning to government plans of rehabilitation, Mr. Henderson observed that it costs the government $25,000 to train an airman to kill and about $15,000 to train an infantryman to kill.

Compare these amounts to the $100 clothing allowance, the $1,000 gratuity and other small amounts available for training the soldier for civilian life, the speaker invited.

"If we can spend those amounts training them to kill we can train them for civilian life. No matter what the costs," he said.

Touching on the case of an Edmontonian serving with the navy, who was rushed to a civilian hospital when taken suddenly ill and has since been billed for $385.

Secretary-manager Williams said the case was being handled by naval authorities here. Mr. Williams said that in civilian hospitals doctors are called to give emergency treatment or take service personnel to a civilian hospital authorities at the Edmonton military hospital should be notified by the doctors at once.

Mr. Williams secured the recently reported stand of the Labor Progressive party on the conscription issue. The party has endorsed the policy of the king government on this question.

STICK TO LABOR MATTERS

"If these people would stick to labor matters and leave military questions alone, it might be much better," Mr. Williams declared.

Del Hawkins rose and told the meeting that the Labor Progressive Party is not truly representative on labor matters.

The members took exception to a recent publicity campaign concerning the beginning in the city by alleged communists. The report was attributed to D. E. Mould, chairman of the Citizens Rehabilitation Council.

Mr. Williams read the item, claiming that it was in a newspaper. Mr. Mould was quoted as saying: "These men are bringing in the streets, in private homes, and

King Thanks Canadians For Loan Effort

OTTAWA, Nov. 20.—(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King, Finance Minister Fliley and Graham Towers, general chairman of the war finance committee, last night broadcast their thanks to the people of Canada for the seven-thousand loan which has been subscribed more than $1,500,000,000 to the seventh victory loan.

In speeches prepared for delivery during a 15-minute broadcast over the national networks of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, the speakers said that during the seven-thousand loan which has been subscribed more than $1,500,000,000 to the seventh victory loan.

EFFORTS INCREASED

"It is particularly significant that in the sixth year of war, the people of this country did not slacken their efforts," said Mr. King. "They increased them."

"Nothing could disclose more clearly the determination of our people to put forth, in every direction, the best efforts towards the winning of the war."

"Each new anticipation of early victory has been met by a spur to our efforts. No finer example can be found than in that portion of the seventh loan composed of the purchase of individuals. Here the total subscription was $600,000,000—a vastly larger sum than ever before asked—and yet you brought it in."

Mr. Towers had a special word of thanks for the 100,000 canvassers whose work was to a great extent responsible for the success of the loan. He also thanked members of the clergy, the newspapers, the radio and the motion picture stars who had contributed to the success.

Mr. Bertrand added that "the war effort" and that the group opposed to Mr. King was "using conscription as a pretext and are more interested in their own property than in the general prosperity."

Maxime Bédard, a former Regina resident, had shot down 18 enemy airplanes during the First Great War. An investigation into the cause of the crash will be made.

Ace of Great War Killed in Crash

MONTREAL, Nov. 20.—(CP)—Air Commodore Roger Delbury, First Great War air ace, DFC, Delbury Croix de Guerre, second in command of No. 3 training command RCAF, was killed Saturday when his training plane crashed near St. Hubert airport. It was announced here last night. Air Commodore Delbury, a former Regina resident, had shot down 18 enemy airplanes during the First Great War. An investigation into the cause of the crash will be made.

Former Resident Dies at Coast

VANCOUVER, Nov. 20.—(CP)—Funeral services will be held Tuesday for Norman Martin Lee, 36, formerly of Winnipeg and Edmonton, who died suddenly here Friday. Interment will be at Edmonton. An employee of the Canadian Pacific Railway for the past 16 years, Mr. Lee came to Vancouver in 1940 as secretary to C. A. Cotterill, assistant general manager, CPR, Vancouver.

Surviving are his widow, a daughter, Sandra, both of Vancouver, and his father, S. M. Lee, Ponoka, Alta.

from business men and the excuses they make are they are waiting cheques, have lost their discharge papers, or some other plausible story."

Mr. Mould pointed out, the article had stated, there is no reason for a man who is actually a returned soldier to solicit in this way and he urged persons who are approached to advise the men to apply to the welfare officer's department.

Mr. Williams said he felt that Mr. Mould should have investigated the facts more closely before rushing into print, adding that under existing regulations no one has authority to issue cheques to discharged veterans here. Cheques must come from Calgary as it is the district welfare office.

MEN WITHOUT PAY

There are cases, Mr. Williams said, where men have been without pay due them for eight and nine days. He quoted the case of a man charged alien as one in point.

John Turner said he thought Mr. Mould should be asked to give the names of the people complaining and how many cases there have been.

President Tanner of the Edmonton branch and P. G. Owens, said there would undoubtedly be cases of misrepresentation to obtain money and quoted a couple of such, but the feeling of the meeting was that publication of such a generalized statement tended to wrongfully stigmatize returned men.

Membership of the Edmonton branch now stands at 2,357, there being an increase of 31 new veterans and 23 old veterans since the last monthly report.

Read by President Tanner several speakers paid tribute to the memory of William "Paddy" Griffin,

Descriptive Ditty Edmontonian Writes Song For Canadian Navy Wrens

OTTAWA, Nov. 20.—(CP)—Cyril G. Waters of Edmonton has composed a song for the Royal Canadian Navy's Wrens and has asked that proceeds from sales be turned over to the Navy League of Canada. It was announced last night.

The song combines three verses of description of the members of the Women's Royal Canadian Naval Service, and the Wrens are especially pleased because it's "not too gushy," as one of the girls puts it. Here's how the first verse goes:

If you see a lassie marching down the street,
Very blue uniform very, very neat,
Anchors on her buttons and a tricorn hat,
Just a touch of swagger—but you can't object to that,
If you see a lassie like a sailor but she never goes to sea—
Maybe you are wondering who this lassie fair can be,
Listen to the secret, you're not obliged to guess—
W R C N S.

Every little Wren works hard to earn her pay,
Ottawa, Newfoundland, Winnipeg, and all the coast—
Some are on the Prairies and some are on the coast—
All of us Canadians and that's our proudest boast,
Someday in the evening we go dancing with our beaux,
Someday in "dances" to attend the picture show,
But when the war is over, hurrah for evening dress—

1934 GAINED WORLD REPUTATION

WHEN the Burlington "Zephyr" sped like a silver bullet on its first run from St. Paul to Chicago in 1934, the fame of a new structural material rang around the world. True, Stainless Steel had been used as early as 1916, but for the first time the amazing strength and rust-proof qualities of Stainless Steel were utilized by modern designers and engineers to revolutionize railway construction. This new train was completely encased in Stainless Steel (8% Nickel, 18% Chromium), so thin—yet so strong—that weight and operating costs were reduced, and hours cut off its running time.

Soon this alloy was being used in airplanes, automobiles, hotel and hospital kitchens, in the pulp and paper, oil and chemical industries. Another new market for Nickel with far-reaching peacetime possibilities was thus developed to replace war work and overshadow the war markets lost in 1918.

Today Canadian Nickel is again diverted to war purposes, and again the industry looks to the future with confidence. Plans are ready to develop and expand old and new peacetime markets, so that the Nickel industry may continue through its own initiative and enterprise, to make still greater contributions to Canada's welfare.

Daily War Map—Exclusively in The Edmonton Bulletin

The battlefront south of Luxembourg is shown on the accompanying map of the Vosges front. A German military commentator says Patton's offensive may be extended to other sectors of the front within the next few hours. Troops captured south of Metz included Altdorf, Maily, and Malancourt. Luxembourg, Montcourt, Cheminot and Bezanga. Concentration of German infantry and vehicles, probably for a counter-attack, were smashed two miles east of Chateau Salins.

Belgium Discards Pre-War Policies

BRUSSELS, Nov. 25.—(CP)—Belgium, overrun by the German hordes, has announced pre-war policies of neutrality and independence, foreign minister Paul Spaak said Saturday.

"After the German aggression of 1940 the policy of neutrality as well as that of independence, came to an end," he said.

"It seems certain that we are progressing towards a universal order of peace in the post-war world."

"While it is necessary to avoid a policy of non-resistance, we will come into opposition with the policy of collective security, we want to emphasize that the Dumbarton Oaks scheme made particular reference to what are called regional arrangements."

"Belgium can therefore envisage the continuation of regional action with France, Holland, Luxembourg and possibly Norway within this wide framework."

Britain will supply military equipment and a certain number of British soldiers will go to Britain for training in British methods."

This article is being written in answer to a request that I discuss the problem of noise. The original request comes from a person living in an apartment house in a crowded city, who complains that the noise of radio and the rackets made by passing automobiles, are preventing sound sleep and making him nervous.

It is true that noise being made by passing automobiles, is making noise by listening to distracting noises. These noises are naturally of a high strength, nervous temperament, but even the placid individual will find it difficult to be annoyed by needless clutter.

Scientific experiments have determined sound level meters will arouse fear in infants and it seems to be thought that noise in the city is a natural fear with which we are born. A group of uneducated noises still have the power of stirring up a fear reaction in the mind of a child. Perhaps we are not conscious that we are reacting in just that way.

Other experiments indicate that continuous noises create fatigue and reduce the concentration of the mind. Especially in offices, where many are working together, the noise of the typewriter and the telephone adds their contribution, the noise problem is acute.

Anglo-American Oil Agreement Dropped
WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—(CP)—Slow death in a Senate foreign relations committee yesterday appeared likely for the proposed Anglo-American oil agreement. Influential Senators and opposition from the United States petroleum industry apparently had doomed even plans for committee hearings. The agreement had contained a statement of an international petroleum commission.

Demonstration of Grenades, Land Mines Given Fusiliers

Some citizens were disturbed by their Sunday siesta by detonations of a war-like character which originated at the old shooting range near the Dawson mine.

It was a heavy boom, but a good start for the training session 1944-45. The Coy. have enjoyed several training films through the kind co-operation of the Local Army Coy. They took part in the Remembrance Day parade in conjunction with the Sea and Air Cadets, the Legion and the Training Centre.

Plans for the near future include several trips to the range and a bang up Coy. party. Several recruits have been accepted and several more have expressed a desire to join "D" Coy. soon.

The records were interviewing complainants in the vicinity of 108 avenue and 15 street when another explosion occurred, which was traced to the east end of the shooting range.

The demolition demonstrations were being given by the 2nd (Reserve) Battalion, Edmonton Fusiliers.

Army Trounces Penn Gridders In College Game
NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Army trounced Pennsylvania 62 to 7, on Saturday as compared with Navy's 26-9 victory over the Quakers three weeks ago.

For about 15 minutes in the Penn game it looked like the old Franklin Field jinx again was working against Army. Penn had driven to the Army 15, but the ball on down, yielded a touchdown on Max and Navy's 40-yard punt, but had bounced back to the score at 7-7.

Then came the deluge as the Cadets scored the biggest score in the history of Franklin Field and more than staked for the worst losing Army club ever suffered, the 40-losing Penn inflicted in 1940.

It was that at Philadelphia, Navy put Purdue through the hoops 32 to 6 at Baltimore. It was the Midland's fourth straight victory.

Eisenhower Reveals Shortage of Ammunition Delayed Aachen Capture

ALLIED SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, PARIS, Nov. 20.—(AP)—The reduction of the German fortress city of Aachen was delayed by a shortage of ammunition, Gen. D. Eisenhower said yesterday.

Gen. Eisenhower declared that "Allied fighting men have achieved in Europe since June 6 one of the remarkable military victories of all time. They have eliminated more than a million German soldiers."

The Allied supreme commander appealed to munitions workers in the United States to turn out ammunition, especially artillery shells, in order to speed the capture of Aachen.

Gen. Eisenhower emphasized the enormous drain of ammunition resulting from the stepped-up tempo of the war.

"Today we are firing ammunition at the rate of 10,000 shells a minute," he said, "and we are using up our stocks of shells at a rate of 10,000 shells a minute."

Gen. Eisenhower said that the shortage of ammunition was the most serious problem facing the Allies in the capture of Aachen.

"We are hammering at the fortress with our main guns," he said, "but we are running out of shells."

Ten-Point Program Is Outlined For Healthy, Equitable Rural Life

Steps should be taken to put rural life on a healthy and equitable basis in the post-war period, as it is basic to the development of a healthy Canadian economy, as a whole, Donald Cameron, director of the department of extension, University of Alberta, told his audience when he addressed a forum on post-war reconstruction Sunday afternoon.

The forum was the second in a series of five being held each Sunday afternoon at a clock in St. John's, Alta., school auditorium under the auspices of the Catholic Laymen's Association.

Mr. Cameron thanked the speaker and pointed out the value of the forum in the development of post-war reconstruction.

He said that the speaker differed in their religious beliefs but should be united in approaching the problems of the post-war world.

QUESTIONS PERIOD
In the question period following the address, 30 questions were asked regarding Canada selling goods to countries which are not belligerent. The speaker replied that there must be an exchange of products, for the sake of the peace, and financial assistance by loans. He said, "The aggressor nations must never be allowed the opportunity of starting another world conflict but we cannot depress them economically because if we do we are laying the ground work for further aggression."

Speaking on "Post-War Reconstruction and Rural Life," Mr. Cameron outlined the problems presented by farming in Alberta specifically. He outlined the background of the farming settlements in the province and pointed out the many inequalities of the present situation.

He said that unplanned settlement had a lot to do with the inequalities as communities were sprung up where the land and other resources were inadequate.

"Briefly, the unsatisfactory situation which has existed for western farmers on a whole can be attributed to two main factors," the speaker said, "namely, markets and unstable production."

"The western farmer has had to produce on a world market and to take what he could get for his product. At the same time he has been forced to produce on a world market at a fixed price."

RESULTS ARE SEEN
He said that the economic results in agriculture are reflected in housing conditions, health, education and debt.

Regarding education, the speaker pointed out that more than half of the public schools in the province are rural and said that higher wages should be paid to teachers in rural schools than in urban areas as an incentive to the country schools. The present inequality is most serious because it affects more than 30 per cent of our population and in five or six years the results will be seen.
